

Willard East Blogging Rules

2012-2013

1. I will use language and information appropriate for school.
2. I will use my own ideas.
3. I will not give out any information more personal than my first name.
4. I will take blogging seriously, posting only ideas and comments that are meaningful.
5. I will not bully others in my blog posts or comments.
6. I will never access another student's account or make any changes to their site.
7. I will personalize my blog and keep my writing original to me.
8. I will only post comments on something that I have fully read, not just skimmed.
9. I will only post comments or ideas that are okay for the whole world to see.
10. I will take my time when I write and I will try to spell everything correctly and use correct punctuation and capitalization.

If I break these rules my consequences might be:

1. Letter of apology, warning by the teacher, and editing or deleting post or comment.
2. Letter of apology, temporary loss of blogging/internet privileges, editing or deleting post or comment.
3. Letter of apology, permanent loss of blogging/internet privileges, editing or deleting post or comment.

I have read and understand the Willard East Blogging Rules.
